Party Caucuses Decide Leaders Of Legislature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's regular, every-two-years session of the Legislature starts seven weeks from today, and its leadership is being decided as this second week of the special session gets under way.

Farmer - contractor Roger Cloud, an eight-term veteran of the Ohio House, was expected to receive a fifth term as speaker at the Republican members-elect session today.

It will be a different story when House Democrats - elect huddle Tuesday.

Michael A. Sweeney, a young Cleveland who begins his fifth term in the House in January, has announced that he will oppose A. G. Lancione of Bellaire for the minority leader's job. Lancione just was elected to his 10th term. Both he and Sweeney are regarded as liberal Democrats.

Thirty-two votes will be needed to win the minority leader's job, because Democrats will have 62 members in the House next year (compared with 42 now). Republicans still will have a 75-62 edge, however.

In the Senate—now controlled 20-13 by Republicans but split 16-16 in the 1965 Legislature (a population ratio accounts for the different totals)—no caucuses have been set.

There had been talk that Democratic minority leader Frank W. Ling of Toledo, recently elected president of the Ohio AFL-CIO, might resign, but this now is being discounted. Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese Sr. of Cleveland has indicated interest in the post.

A power struggle could be shaping up for the Senate majority leader's post, however, because C. Stanley Mechem, now in his 11th term, was defeated Nov. 3. Mentioned as possible successors to the Athens County (Nelsonville) veteran are Sens. William H. Deddens of Cincinnati, a 14-term veteran of House and Senate, and Theodore M. Gray, a seven-term member from Piqua.

Of 24 bills introduced during the first three days of this special session last week, 17 are in the lap of the Senate. Only one—to validate advanced date state checks bearing the signature of the late Roger W. Tracy, state auditor who died a week ago—has passed both houses.

The House Elections - Federal Relations Committee turns its attention again tonight to congressional redistricting. The challenge of course is, in accord with a U.S. Supreme Court ruling, to map out 24 congressional districts in Ohio which are nearly equal in population.

Germans Seek New Contacts In Red China

BERLIN (AP) — West Germany wants to renew official contacts with Red China in the spring, a top official of the Bonn government reports. An exchange of trade missions could result, but the chief goal is political.

Talks between the two governments would not take place until Chancellor Ludwig Erhard explained his position to President Johnson, the official said.

"Now that the American elections are over, we can move ahead in our dealings with Red China," he added.

West Germany and Red China signed a one-year trade agreement in 1957, but it was not renewed. German and Chinese officials held preliminary talks earlier this year. The Chinese Communists said then they were willing to sign a new trade agreement with West Germany providing for an exchange of trade missions and including a clause stating that West Berlin is considered economically and politically part of West Germany.

West Germany already has trade agreements containing such a clause with the Communist governments of Poland, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. This has undermined the Soviet and East German position that Germany is divided into three separate units — East and West Germany and West Berlin.

Some West German officials have said an exchange of trade missions between Bonn and Peking would have little trade significance but would be politically important.

These officials feel it would be an overture to France that would not get Bonn into much trouble with the United States. France established diplomatic relations with Peking last summer and reportedly has been pressuring West Germany to follow suit.

More important for the Bonn government, however, exchange of trade missions was seen as a way to deepen the split between Red China and East Germany.

The East Germans have repeatedly accused Peking of ignoring their interests.

Traffic Crashes Take 18 Lives

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Light rain fell over most of western and northwestern Ohio on Sunday and it figured in at least two traffic accidents that claimed a pair of lives each.

Those accidents helped boost Ohio's weekend traffic death toll to 18—the ninth weekend in a row for the toll to hit double figures. Two deaths in miscellaneous accidents increased the over-all accidental death count to 20.

Vatican Seeks Aid for Poor From Priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The 2,000 Roman Catholic prelates entered the final week of the current session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council today and heard an appeal for donations to the poor of the world, just as Pope Paul VI gave away his own jeweled crown.

Archbishop Percile Felici, secretary general of the Council, told the assembly in St. Peter's Basilica that a number of cardinals gave the Pope money for the needy after the pontiff's dramatic gesture last Friday.

The archbishop said many council fathers had asked how they could "participate" in Pope Paul's action.

"The very best way would be to give offerings to the Pope for the poor," Archbishop Felici said. He asked that such contributions be sent to the Vatican secretariat of state.

He appeared to be talking of cash contributions although at past council sessions some prelates suggested that bishops turn in their rings and pectoral crosses as a way of raising money for the poor.

There was no indication from Vatican sources how Pope Paul's $10,000 crown would be used to help the poor.

The council began the 10th and last week of its third session.

The cardinals, archbishops, bishops and patriarchs may have to meet in the afternoons as well as the mornings to get documents ready for the ceremonial closing Saturday.

It seemed virtually certain that Pope Paul would be able to issue two council schemata as full Church decrees next Saturday.

One blazes a new path for Roman Catholic relations with other Christians. The other establishes the principle that all bishops share collectively with the Pope in governing the church.

Rhodes Asks Audit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes requested an audit today of the state auditor's office as required by law following the death of Auditor Roger W. Tracy last Monday.

The governor appointed Chester W. Goble, 71, former state Selective Service director to the vacancy. Rhodes indicated that he would obtain a replacement for Goble later.

Christmas Funds Reach $250,000

About 2,500 Pickaway County residents are sharing in more than $250,000 as a result of Christmas Club savings accounts started this time last year.

Circleville's five financial institutions today reported that the special holiday savings accounts totaled $252,370.82—an increase of nearly $10,000 over last year's savings programs.

The majority of the checks have been mailed. However, some will not receive their checks until the middle of the week.

Most of the savings will go towards Christmas shopping, some will be placed into savings accounts and others will be used "to bring monthly bills up-to-date," one banker said today.

THE SAVINGS Bank had the greatest amount of holiday accounts, 871. These persons saved a total of $103,143.50. Walter Garner, executive vice president of the bank, said this figure had increased about $7,000 over last year's total.

Other totals offered by The First National Bank, The Sec-

No Change Produced By Recount

A recount of the 12,820 ballots cast here in the November election failed to produce any change in the outcome of the Clerk of Courts race.

The recount was conducted by Board of Elections officials Saturday at the request of Roger E. Bowers, a Democrat. He had lost the race by a narrow margin of eight votes to Mrs. Sara D. Dresbach, according to early counting.

Final tabulations of the recount produced the same outcome—eight votes difference in favor of Mrs. Dresbach.

Workers started the recount at about 1:30 p. m. Saturday and were finished about 10:30 p. m. All 53 precincts were counted.

Quake Shakes California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A series of earthquakes rumbled along a nine-county area along California's central coast Sunday night, centered in the sparsely populated Santa Cruz Mountains about 90 miles south of San Francisco.

A University of California seismologist said the heaviest shock registered between 5 and 5.5 on the Richter scale which placed the destructive 1906 San Francisco earthquake at 8.25.

The shocks in San Francisco were the city's worst since a 1957 tremor with a Richter magnitude of 5.5 injured 31 persons and caused several million dollars damage.

Once Around Roundtown

STEADY rain late yesterday and early today was greeted with mixed reaction by local hunters.

Until yesterday, today's opener was viewed as rather hazardous due to extreme dry conditions. However, the precipitation that started falling Sunday evening quickly changed the complexion of things.

Most area nimrods considered the rainfall a blessing, despite the somewhat unpleasant hunting conditions it might bring. Regardless of the reaction, hundreds moved into the fields here for the first day of shooting.

As of noon, no accidents had been reported in the county. Several hunters taking time out for lunch reported good bags of both rabbits and pheasants.

DOWNTOWN Circleville is rapidly taking on the Christmas season look. Crews have already started stringing overhead lights that will criss-cross Court and Main Sts. The project will be completed within the next few days when workers erect the customary decorations at the Court-Main intersection.

IT WAS pointed out today that William Ammer carried all precincts in his bid for reelection to the Common Pleas Court bench. A typo in The Herald's election table listed his opponent as winning in the Ashville West precinct. The correct count there was 168-103 in favor of the incumbent.

YESTERDAY'S rainfall measured 0.42 of an inch and the local weatherman said that at least another half inch or more was expected to fall before the rain ends late this evening. Although the rainfall dampened the opening day of hunting season, it was greeted with unanimous applause by area farmers who were alarmed that the drought situation might not be eased until after the ground had frozen.

Corps for Doctors

NEW YORK (AP) — Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, says the corps is starting a program to send hundreds of doctors abroad on health projects.

Shriver said Sunday that 100 doctors worked overseas as volunteers or on assignment from the U.S. Public Health Service last year.

Airliner Hits Peak Killing 28 Persons

U.S. Medic's Life Spared By Congolese

Officials Deny Spying Charges Against Medic

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Congo rebels announced they planned to execute American medical missionary Dr. Paul Carlson today in Stanleyville, but a followup rebel broadcast said Carlson's life had been spared at least temporarily.

In a broadcast monitored in Nairobi, Kenya, Stanleyville radio said the rebel government "has agreed in principle to an offer of the U.S. consul" to negotiate over Carlson's fate.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk today called the announced intention of Congolese rebels to execute Carlson "an outrageous violation" of international law. He requested Kenya's Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta to save the American's life.

Rusk's statement was believed made here before word of the offer to negotiate had been received.

Earlier the rebels had announced in a broadcast heard in Leopoldville they were going to kill Carlson, 36, of Rollings Hills, Calif. The rebels charged him with being a major in the U.S. armed forces.

The execution announcement brought a denial from the Pentagon in Washington that Carlson was a military man.

Some 60 Americans have been trapped behind rebel lines in the northern Congo. At last report, the five-man U.S. consul staff in Stanleyville headed by Michael Hoyt, 33, of Chicago, was being held under house arrest.

Carlson was captured Sept. 21 by the rebels when he refused to abandon his Congolese patients. They said Carlson's only military experience was a two-year hitch in the Navy between 1946 and 1948.

Carlson was captured by the rebels on Sept. 21 at Yakoma, north of Stanleyville on the Congo's border with the Central African Republic. He had radioed earlier that he intended to stay behind to treat sick and wounded.

Christophe Gbenye, self-proclaimed president of the Communist-backed "Congolese Peoples' Republic" in Stanleyville announced last month that Carlson was being held in the rebel capital, awaiting trial.

In Chicago, Dr. Arden Almquist, executive secretary of Covenant World Missions, said Carlson "definitely is not a spy." "Part of his difficulty may be that we have radio communication between our various mission stations and we have transmitters," he said.

GOP Leadership Still Bickering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's support of Dean Burch's claim that he has "a four-year contract" to head the Republican National Committee pushed bickering Republicans today toward a showdown over control of their party machinery.

Burch said Sunday he will fight back if anyone tries to oust him.

Among others, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York made it clear they will use all the influence they have to force a change in leadership of the national committee.

Goldwater said on his return Sunday night from a Jamaican vacation after his defeat by President Johnson that the party should honor Burch's "contract." Goldwater picked Burch for the chairmanship after his own nomination at the San Francisco convention and the committee in turn elected the Phoenix, Ariz., lawyer.

Burch has scheduled a January meeting of the national committee at which he has said he would stand or fall on a vote of confidence.

Veteran politicians had expected Burch to save his $30,000-a-year job by some conciliatory statement that he would serve all policy factions as a non-policy-making director.

This would have followed the pattern of Goldwater's statement that the Republican course in the next four years will be carved out by GOP members of the Senate and House under the leadership of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

Burch, accompanying Goldwater on his return, said that as chairman he would be "mechanic and technician, not a creator of policy." But, he added, he had been elected for a four-year term, intends to serve it out and if anybody thought to

Reapportionment Ordered by Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court handed to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court today the job of seeing that the state's legislature adopts a reapportionment law meeting the federal "one-man-one-vote" standard.

The highest tribunal, in a unanimous action, vacated a decision by a special three-judge U. S. District Court for the middle Pennsylvania district that had declared invalid legislative apportionment acts of Jan. 9, 1964.

Ohio Statehouse Garage Opens for 1,205 Cars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state's new 1,205-car underground parking garage here, construction of which has at times upset various persons, rom statue fanciers to state senators, opened for business today.

The U-shaped facility is on three levels beneath the Statehouse grounds in downtown Columbus. None of it is directly beneath the Capitol or its Supreme Court annex, however, or within less than 40 feet of their walls.

Authorized by the 1961 legislature, the garage was built under supervision of a four-member underground parking commission headed by William E. Knepper.

Ground was broken June 21, 1963, and—although all the ceremonies will be next week and it will go into immediate use—the job still is about six and a half months from completion because the site will be landscaped.

Among minor crises which broke around construction of the garage were protests about reoust him, he would fight back.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told newsmen on his arrival in Tokyo Sunday that a GOP comeback hinges on finding new leadership "that is (Continued on Page Two)"

Forest Fires, Snow Storms Plague Nation

CHICAGO (AP)—Forest fires continued to ravage woodlands in the desperately dry eastern half of the nation today, adding to the already staggering cost of the record-shattering autumn drought.

Rainfall dampened portions of the Midwest Sunday, but the light downfall wasn't enough to make up for weeks and months of no rain.

Communities renewed their effort to gain federal emergency relief funds, farmers hauled water to livestock, city officials planned alternate water supplies and farmers watched their winter crop wilt.

But in the Northwest, snow was piled three feet deep in spots and temperatures plummeted below zero.

Officials closed U.S. 160 over Wolf Creek Pass in southwestern Colorado and Independence Pass in the central portion as snow piled up three feet deep. Ten inches of snow fell in Aspen.

In Wyoming, light snow continued to fall and highways were reported slick and dangerous.

The temperature dropped to 25 below zero in West Yellowstone, Montana's traditional icebox. It was 4 below in Butte. A 16-inch snow stalled traffic near Broadus, Mont.

Snow fell in the mountains of western New Mexico, and Zuni reported a 4-inch fall. Northern Arizona and the mountains of southern Arizona were hit by snowfalls.

The Midwest drought abated somewhat after a day of substantial rainfalls. The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted a sharp temperature decrease as a cold front moved toward the heart of the nation.

Brown's Aide Says Ballots Valid in 3rd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Failure to rotate names of congressional candidates on ballots in the Third District would not invalidate the Nov. 3 election there, William Harrington, elections counsel for Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, said today.

Harrington said election boards in Montgomery and Butler counties of the Third Congressional District were notified to certify returns despite complaints by Rep. Paul F. Schenck, Dayton Republican.

Schenck complained that names were not rotated in his race with Rodney Love, Dayton Democrat and former probate judge who won the Third District congressional seat.

Harrington conceded that rotation may not have been followed in the district but said it would have no effect on the election.

He said if Schenck wanted to challenge the outcome he should carry his complaint to Congress which has a committee and staff of investigators for that purpose. Harrington said that Ohio courts lack jurisdiction in congressional elections. He added that it would be up to local election boards in Montgomery and Butler counties to take disciplinary action if it appears needed against officials for any failure to rotate names as required by statute.

Jet Vanishes Minutes Away From Landing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wreckage of an airliner that hit a mountain peak in a storm last night was found this morning. Sheriff's deputies said all 28 persons aboard were dead.

The propjet Bonanza Airlines plane vanished during a snowstorm just before it was due to land on a flight from Phoenix.

Searchers spotted the wreckage shortly after dawn. Helicopters flew to the scene and began flying bodies to a lower level.

The scene is about 16 miles southwest of Las Vegas near the railroad community of Arden.

The terrain is so rugged in that area that jeeps could not reach the scene.

A motorist told sheriff's officers he saw the twin-engine plane skimming the ground on a whirl of snow eight miles south of the city.

The Fairchild F27, Bonanza Airline's Flight 114 from Phoenix, Ariz., was three minutes from a landing at McCarran Field when it vanished from the radar screen at 8:27 p.m.

The plane was heading northeast, dropping down into the mountain-rimmed Las Vegas valley for an instrument landing.

Sheriff's officers said Bob Baker, a Las Vegas man, told them: "I was driving on Highway 91 between 8 and 8:30 p.m. when I saw a Bonanza plane, 70 to 100 feet off the ground, heading southeast. There were no landing lights on. One landing (Continued on Page Two)"

Seattle Says Last Goodbye To Hutch

SEATTLE (AP)—Hutch came home today—to the place of his boyhood where folks first noticed he was stamped with greatness.

To thousands throughout the country he was Fred Hutchinson, former minor-league pitcher and former manager of the Detroit Tigers, the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds.

In this neighborhood he was a young legend—pitcher extraordinary, the best baseball manager ever and something that got into your heart for keeps.

Hutch died of chest cancer at the age of 45 in Bradenton, Fla., Thursday. There was a brief memorial service there Saturday with his family and friends attending, including more than 200 prominent baseball figures.

His body was flown to Seattle for funeral services late today at Rainier Beach Presbyterian Church. Burial is at Mount Olivet Cemetery in suburban Renton.

Jet Vanished

Baker's location was about where the plane was last sighted on radar but his sighting gave the plane a different direction: south instead of north.

The season's first snow was falling heavily as the search was launched. Soon after the F27 disappeared McCarran Field was closed to traffic. Another Bonanza plane, Flight 104, landed north of the city at Nellis Air Force Base.

Six to eight inches of snow covered the open desert country near Arden, and higher drifts stalled many rescue-party cars.

The highway and the railroad run through the bottom of the 4,500-foot-high valley, which is within sight of the neon glow of the Las Vegas strip to the north. Most of the valley is open country where a plane could possibly survive a forced landing.

Not many miles away on the east and west are mountains. On the west, in the Clark Mountains, slopes climb steeply to 8,504-foot Potosi Mountain. To the east foothills rise to 5,000-foot heights.

Bonanza officials hoped at first the plane might have been flown to another field after its pilot somehow lost radio communications. The plane carried enough fuel to keep it aloft until 11 p.m.

Soon after that Myron Reynolds, Bonanza's vice president in charge of operations, told newsmen: "The fuel point has been passed. We must assume the plane is down. We just don't know where."

New Typhoon Hits Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Another typhoon bore down today on South Viet Nam's central coast area, still not recovered from floods in which nearly 7,000 persons drowned and hundreds of thousands were left homeless.

The new storm was expected to hit the coastal resort of Nha-Trang where Typhoon Joan caused wide devastation earlier this month. Emergency measures were taken in the city of 55,000, where several U.S. installations are located.

A U.S. weather expert said Kate, third typhoon to strike the central coast this fall, is expected to cause heavy damage despite precautions.

In the flood area, U.S. military sources said Viet Cong guerrillas were waylaid by villagers at roadblocks and seizing food.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said the Communists killed 150 Vietnamese soldiers last week and made off with 236 weapons. He said the Viet Cong suffered 138 dead and 49 captured and lost 60 weapons.

A U.S. helicopter pilot was wounded by Viet Cong ground fire Sunday while attempting to get flood victims out of an isolated region in the Qui Nhon area. On Saturday a U.S. Army officer was wounded when his armored carrier hit a mine in Vinh Binh Province.

Justice Supports Prayer Decision

NEW YORK (A)—Associate Justice William J. Brennan Jr. of the U.S. Supreme Court says the court's decision on school prayer was "faithful to our society's judgment."

The court enjoined governmental institutions from requiring prayers in the public schools.

Brennan, speaking Sunday night at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, said many persons "have voiced concern that the prayer decisions portend the elimination of religion from every vestige of public life."

But, he said, in the religion clauses of the Constitution "our collective society has pronounced its own judgment that its governmental institutions may not officially involve religion in such a way as to prefer, discriminate or oppress a particular religion or religion in general."

JFK Monument Includes Flame

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans for a white marble terrace and a low, plain monument for John F. Kennedy's grave were announced today.

The central theme for the grave site will be the eternal flame lighted by the president's widow the day of his funeral almost one year ago.

The grave in a small grass plot marked by a gray slate tablet which the designers said was the tradition in early New England.

The flame placed at the head of the grave, will be directly along the historic axis extending from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial, and then across the Potomac River to the Custis-Lee Mansion at Arlington National Cemetery where Kennedy is buried.

Steps will lead up to the grave site, on a slope just below the mansion.

In the center, slightly elevated is to be the rectangular grass plot where President Kennedy is buried. Its marble "frame" contains a kneeling step for prayer. Within the grass plot will be a slate marker about three feet by

170 Parents Attend Event

Last Thursday the youthful memories of former school days were resuscitated for 170 parents who observed the regular day classes, and for those 160 who attended the especially prepared evening sessions at S. Court St. School.

This program, entitled, "Operation Apple", was planned and executed by Paul Smith, Edward Leatherwood, Mrs. Florence Baker, Mrs. Merle Penn, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, Mrs. Margaret Evans, and supervised by Mrs. Mildred Dowden. Their intention as a committee, was to construct a presentation that would give the parents a general concept of present-day education based on a cursory view of what occurs in the modern-day classroom.

J. L. Chilcote, principal of S. Court St. School, categorically stated that "Operation Apple" was an unequivocal success and hopes that in the future, his school might engage in similar activities that would allow the parents of Circleville a chance to become a direct part of the school environment.

He would also like to express his thanks to both the teachers and the parents whose exuberant attitudes made "Operation Apple" a significant event.

Ashville Man Is Injured

An Ashville man was injured in a one-car accident Sunday afternoon on Route 752 east of the Circleville-Lockbourne Eastern Road.

Robert L. Roese, 24, was treated for a shoulder injury at Berger Hospital after losing control of his car on the wet pavement.

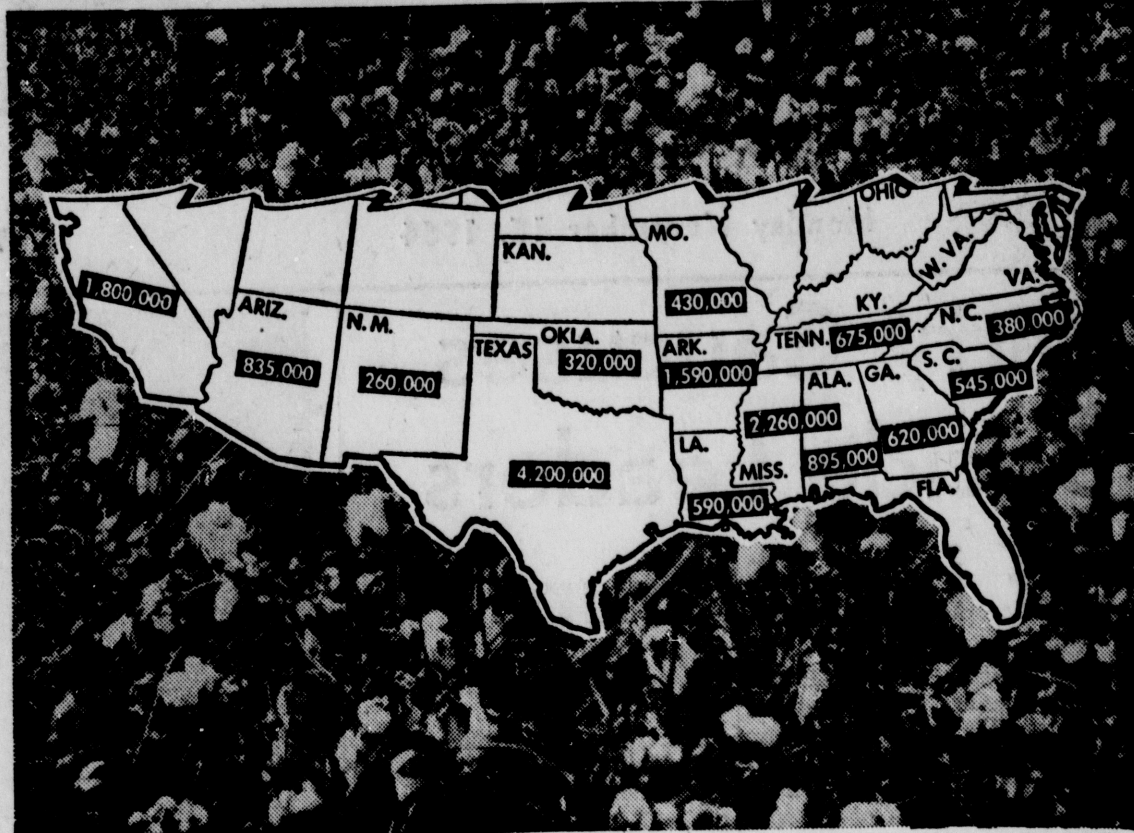

Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley said that Roese's car went off the left side of the road, skidded 78 feet in the ditch, and came to a halt when it struck a utility pole.

Estimated damage to the 1957-model vehicle was set at $250 by Deputy Straley. The accident occurred at about 2:15 p. m.

U.S. Satellite Project Slowed by Delta Defect

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—America's scientific satellite program has been slowed seriously by problems with a new third stage on the once reliable Delta rocket.

Three Delta launchings scheduled in October and November apparently will be delayed until 1965. They are the Tiro 9 weather satellite, an orbiting solar observatory and an Explorer radiation-sensing payload.

"Therefore," he added, "we intend to recommend that the Congress appropriate all funds necessary for the grave site, except for the immediate area surrounding President Kennedy's grave, which will be paid for by the Kennedy family."

This division, he said is in keeping with the rules and traditions of all national cemeteries.

The exact division of charges, will depend on actual construction costs, he said, adding "the family's share will probably be between $200,000 and $400,000."

McNamara said construction is expected to begin in the fall of 1965 and will continue for about one year.

During construction, the defense secretary said it still would be possible "most if not all the time" to visit the grave.

Rockefeller said on the ABC "Issues and Answers" television program that he expects a change in national leadership of the party, and made it plain that he had Burch in mind.

Lodge said on NBC's "Meet the Press" program he doesn't think that in reorganization the Republicans ought to read anybody out of the party. But he said he believes there ought to be established a permanent advisory council of leading Republicans such as he said had been suggested by Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, a former national chairman.

Writing in the New York Times, Javits said that Republicans must reorganize their party on a basis where it will appeal to middle-of-the-road voters. He deplored what he described as an excursion by Goldwater into the "extremist" area in the campaign.

Unless the Republicans reorient their course, Javits said, "Democrats will be running against Sen. Goldwater and the 1964 platform for years to come."

The teachers walked out in support of a demand for an annual pay raise of $1,500—five times that which they would have received under the Nov. 3 referendum.

Thousands of Congolese have been murdered. Central government troops who recaptured Kindu, capital of Maniema Province, found the foot of a monument to the late Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's extremist first premier blackened and cracked by heat where rebels had burned hundreds of Congolese alive.

Messages filtering out of Stanleyville say batches of Congolese are killed there each day at the foot of a monument to Lumumba.

More than 1,000 foreigners are still in the rebel zone, including more than 60 Americans.

Most of the trapped Americans are missionaries or teachers at Stanleyville's Protestant University. Five Americans from the U.S. consulate in Stanleyville have been held more than two months.

The rebels hoped to pressure the United States, Belgium and other Western nations into dropping support of Premier Moise Tshombe.

DISCOVER MOVIE HAWK HAS MYOPIA—This movie hawk named Slasher was holding up production of the film, "War Lord," in Colusa, Calif., because he couldn't find the mark when he was supposed to soar from the skies and land on the arm of star Charlton Heston. He kept over-shooting the mark. Finally owner-trainer Ray Berwick (left) took Slasher to eye doctor William James (right), who said the bird is suffering from myopia, or just plain near-sightedness.

Coin Collecting Boom Reaching Dizzy Heights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In Monroe, Wis., bank officials doled out 20,000 wooden nickels. Before Uncle Sam could tell them they couldn't do this, 19,550 had disappeared from circulation. Some have turned up in coin shops. Price: one dime.

In New York the other day a dealer wrote out a check for $17 in exchange for 91 cents worth of this year's coins.

What mad, mad world is this where some banks will give you a dollar bill for 98 cents in change; or offer trading stamps for cash: Where a single shiny penny (1932D) will sell for $18; a dime (1916D new) as much as $700. The letter on a coin indicates where it was minted: D means Denver; S, San Francisco; O, New Orleans; and P or no letter, Philadelphia.

What craziness is this when coin dealers can pay 1,000 times the face value of a roll of nickels, and still sell for a profit?

There's a boom in coin collecting that some dealers say has reached the dizzy heights of mania.

It has increased the ranks of numismatists — coin collectors — to an estimated 12 million; sparked the formation of new coin clubs at the rate of one a day; zoomed circulation of one weekly trade paper from a few thousands to 172,000 in four years; and has kids and tycoons alike squirming away small change until the entire nation is short.

Although both Philadelphia and Denver mints — presently the only two in the nation — are stamping out new coins on a day-and-night schedule — 8 billion pieces this year — small change is becoming scarcer and scarcer.

The great Chase Manhattan

Reign over Bananas

FULTON, Ky. (AP) — The reigning princess of the International Banana Festival really got into the spirit of the celebration this year.

The princess, Carol Clisson of Martin, Tenn., slipped on a banana peel during festival ceremonies.

Luckily, a young athlete was there to catch her and prevent a fall.

Bank in New York is reduced to pleading with employees of its 130 branches to bring in change from their piggy banks. Placards at grocery checkout counters exhort, "Please have exact change." Ministers are urged to bank their Sunday collections on Monday mornings. Signs at tellers' windows read, "Wanted: your extra coins to help us stem the current coin shortage."

Buying and selling coins has become big business. Coin dealers, numismatists, coin magazine publishers, bankers and Treasury officials disagree on how and why all this happened.

Some say the recent boom to human nature. "It's a human trait to collect," says Jack Friedberg, president of Capital Coin Co., which services coin shops in 38 department stores around the country.

Thomas J. Wass, president of the National Association of Coin Dealers, blames much of today's coin shortage on the massive quantities locked up in millions of machines — parking meters, candy dispensers, cigarette machines, laundries, telephone boxes, changemakers — that pock our sidewalks, offices and stores.

Some dealers think the Kennedy commemorative half dollar, saved by millions for sentimental reasons — and still not in general circulation even after 131 million have been minted — lured many more to the hobby. "When people saw they could get a dollar for a half dollar, they decided this was one dandy hobby," said one.

The demand for silver in industry, for electronic and photographic purposes, upped the price of silver. Today some coins, such as the 1942-1945 nickels, are worth melting for the silver in them. Melt coins away, and this means more holes in collectors' boards. Today a complete set of nickels which brought $7 four years ago will bring $35.

The high prices worry many coin dealers. "It's pricing kids right out of the hobby," said Friedberg. "What will happen when no new hobbyists come to market?"

Still, coin collectors keep joining the ranks, with 15 million estimated by 1965.

Public Apathy Kills Drive for Race Courtesy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The adage that "courtesy costs nothing" is doubtless still true, but Margaret Malherbe has found it takes money to promote the idea.

Lack of public support has forced Mrs. Malherbe and 14 helpers to abandon a courtesy crusade aimed at reducing friction between the segregated racial groups of South Africa. She spent two years at it, and about $1,400.

Mrs. Malherbe, a Johannesburg housewife, says: "We are sorry to see the campaign abandoned, but our operation lasted only as long as funds were forthcoming. Now we have nothing left in the bank."

The courtesy campaigners distributed thousands of leaflets, posters and booklets urging shopkeepers, householders, business organizations and schools to encourage and promote interracial politeness.

The campaigners' courtesy code suggested that black and whites should:

Speak out against rudeness wherever found;
Refuse to accept service if others, regardless of color, have been waiting longer;

Refrain from calling a black servant or other employee by the name of Jim, Boy or Kaffir — African;

Challenge unfair condemnation of any particular racial group;

Never ask a male African servant to wash or iron women's undergarments — it offends his dignity;

Treat Africans and other races with human dignity;

Teach children to be polite.

"Children are often the worst offenders," says Mrs. Malherbe. "The social structure of South Africa allows white children to be waited on hand and foot, not only by African servants but also by their parents. This way of life breeds thoughtlessness which leads to rudeness and, as they grow older, it becomes an established way of life which leads to friction between the races."

Mrs. Malherbe found promotion of racial good will no easy task.

South Africa's rigid apartheid laws are enforced by thousands of "whites only" signs. People are channeled into separate buses, trains, theaters and post office counters. There are thus few opportunities for contact by whites, intent on promoting courtesy and good will among the racial groups.

Campaign Spending Report Law Is Labeled as 'Unenforcible'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—One Ohio congressman, a veteran in this sort of thing, turned in his campaign spending report this way:

Received $1,000, spent $24.28. Balance none.

Did he comply with the law? Yes says the secretary of state's office which didn't bother to ask about that other $975.72 — and, apparently with good reason.

"The present law is unenforcible," says Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, the state's chief election official.

"Repeal it, or give us some kind of law with teeth in it," says Brown.

A Brown aide adds: "The money can go for booze and it's not against the law." It may, however, irk some contributors.

The present law is so full of loopholes, says Brown, "that a man can spend all he can get." Nevertheless, all of Ohio's candidates for public office — winners and losers, will file reports in the next few weeks as required by the law. The deadline for statewide offices and Congress, which are filed with the secretary of state, is Dec. 18.

Candidates for county and lesser offices file with county election boards. The reports, showing expenditures and receipts must be filed within 45 days after a primary and within 45 days after a general election.

The law also says that candidates for statewide, Congress or Senate posts cannot spend more than $5,000 themselves. There is no limit on what "supporters" or, for example, the committee for John Doe for Governor, can spend.

Failure to make report means the candidate can't run for office for five or seven years, depending on the term of the office he sought. There is also the possibility of up to six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Of course, if the candidate lies in his report, he is subject to perjury prosecution, but as Brown points out, there is "no policing" of the reports.

Brown says the present law is not intended to produce the same results as a checkup by an accounting firm would do.

William G. Harrington, chief election counsel for Brown, says many Ohioans wrongly believe that the filing of the reports is like an accounting. Its purpose, says Harrington, is to find out if any individual has exceeded his limit. But he admits that since many of the candidates are supported by organizations and committees the law is weak, except in some primary campaigns.

There is wide leeway too, officials in Brown's office say, on how the report is made. Some candidates list all meals as an expense. Senators frequently charge air transportation from Washington to Ohio and back as a campaign expenditure.

As for any balance shown between receipts and expenditures, the law says only that the candidate should say how he intends to use the balance.

Another Ohio congressman, for instance, has had a total of almost $8,000 left over from his campaigns since 1954. No one has checked to see that he spent this $8,000 on "organization work" in his district as he said on his affidavit.

How much money does it cost nowadays to run for state office?

Brown says he wouldn't think of running for Congress unless he—or somebody backing him—had $10,000 before the primary. In a metropolitan county like Cuyahoga (Cleveland), Brown says the minimum to run for a county office would be $5,000.

An Associated Press survey in 1956 showed that every vote cast in Ohio ends up costing about $3.75. This figure includes all campaign expenses and the cost of holding elections.

The big expense for beginning candidates is the primary. Once elected, the picture can change. Several Ohio Congressmen frequently report nothing received or spent in a primary.

A candidate's aspirations and the party's plans for him also figure in the cost. The late Roger W. Tracy, state auditor, spent about $5,700 getting elected in 1962.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, who received much bigger party contributions, spent almost 10 times that much in 1960 in getting elected to his same job.

But, said another Brown aide, a well-known person like astronaut Col. John H. Glenn Jr., "could have made it with his $50 filing fee."

Brown, who recalls his coat and pants didn't match when he was elected to his first public office in 1932, says "it's getting harder and harder for a man of moderate means to run unless he's in a small county."

Although the limit of $5,000 per individual might stop a millionaire from "buying office," it cannot stop his wife, relatives, friends or party from pouring what Brown calls "tremendous amounts of money" into a campaign.

As he did in 1962, Brown will try to get a change in the present law so that campaign money is deposited in a bank. The bank would make two or three reports These would come during the campaign instead of after — when the big spender who may have violated the law is already elected.

Brown concedes his proposed bill has only an "equal chance" of ever clearing the legislature next January. Even then, it may be amended to spoil its intent.

In the meantime, the reports will be fluttering into both Brown's office and county election boards across the state.

One candidate in 1962, however, seemed to view the report as either a joke or a way to rid himself of some bitterness.

His expense report said: "Travel to Cincinnati to be rejected by Hamilton County Committee, $35. Travel to Columbus to be rejected by State Democratic Committee, $30." And the final blow: "Travel to Washington to be shunned by the President of the USA, $85."

Worry Warts Wrong

Minor officials in federaldom every once in awhile throw up their hands in horror at the economic prospects of "disarmament." To them, it seems, the defense budget is everything and a sudden cessation of defense spending would throw the U. S. economy into a panic from which it might never recover.

To prevent such a catastrophe at some point in the future, they are fond of pointing to all types of government research programs which might be instituted to direct surplus manpower into new fields of employment, factories into new lines of consumer goods, and so on.

Speaking of simple answers for complex problems, what these voices are proposing are impossible solutions for problems which do not exist and never will.

Defense spending near the present plane of $50 billion a year is not going to disappear overnight, or even over many years. But even when defense outlays are scaled down, the process will not be precipitous.

If a time arrives for a transition from defense production to manufacture of consumer goods, companies now engaged in that line of work will be given plenty of notice that defense contracts are about to be curtailed. But most of them will have already taken the initiative to provide new areas of enterprise for their talents.

This is the situation now with many firms which formerly were primarily engaged in filling defense contracts. Some companies, which prefer to plod along complacent in the dream that a guaranteed market for their products will continue to be provided indefinitely by the Defense Department, will run into trouble.

But in a free society, that is a natural risk and non-progressive enterprise will fall heir to, and it is this weeding out of the unfit which has produced a constantly improving standard of living.

Businessmen are not the fools some federal planners apparently think they are. But in some of the schemes the planners have dreamed up, business management isn't credited with enough sense to know the Model T Ford isn't the number one seller anymore.

Light at Water's Edge

I may be Pollyanna, but as a conservative I don't think the Lyndon Johnson landslide means a victory for galloping nonsense in the conduct of U. S. foreign policy. Even the so-called "fringe on top element" within the Administration is giving evidence that it can learn from events.

There is Walt W. Rostow, the chairman of the Policy Planning Council of the State Department, for example. It wasn't so long ago that Walt Rostow was being excoriated by conservatives for the document known as the "Rostow Papers." As a "working plan," this document was thoroughly committed to appeasement of the Communists. According to those who have been privileged to read the Papers in several of their drafts, Rostow insisted that the U. S. should get along with the Communist regimes of Eastern Europe, that friendly relations with Red China should be encouraged, that the West should be prepared to do business with East Germany, and that the Free China government in Formosa should be persuaded to let the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu revert to the mainland. Worst of all from a conservative standpoint, Rostow seemed to be calling for the surrender of U.S. military independence to a police force run by the United Nations.

The dismissal of Khrushchev, of course, makes the Rostow Papers academic for the moment. Obviously, if the new rulers of the Soviet Union cozy up once more to Mao Tse-tung, it means a new turn in the Cold War. For purposes of self-protection, the Communist regimes of Eastern Europe will have to declare a greater solidarity with Moscow, even if it means more belligerence toward the U. S. Indeed, the solidarity parade has already begun. The disposition in Hungary and Poland to argue with Moscow over the treatment of Khrushchev has been stalled. Reports are that Poland's Gomulka was herded into line by the subtle tactic of showing him a transcript of the conversations between Khrushchev's son-in-law Abuzeli, and the West Germans. These talks dealt with a possible reapproachment between Bonn and Moscow that would, if carried out, endanger the security of the Polish western border.

The really encouraging thing about Rostow, however, is that he had begun to modify the spirit of the "Rostow Papers" working plan even before the dramatic overturn in the Kremlin. The idea of urging the cession of Quemoy and Matsu on the Formosa government has been dropped.

Rostow has convinced certain conservatives in Washington that he stands for firmness against the Communists in Southeast Asia and in South America. He still believes in rolling with the punch in Eastern Europe, but according to his friends he advocates counter-punching in such close-to-America areas as British Guiana and Castroite Cuba.

The "flexible" Rostow has suddenly turned up as an enemy of the idea that the way to win the "underdeveloped nations to the cause of the West is to present them with steel mills and other appurtenances of heavy industry. "Development economics," so Rostow said recently, is "essentially a biological science." By this he means that undeveloped nations such as India and the African countries must consider "agricultural development" as "vastly more important in modernizing a society than we used to think."

The interesting thing about such statements is that they undercut the thesis of Rostow's famous book about the need for bringing Italy, Egypt, and South America to the so-called "take-off" spot by turning them into industrial nations via socialist forced-draft investment.

Rostow even had a good word to say in a recent speech for stabilizing wages and encouraging prices to fall. In short to all intents and purposes, he has become an anti-Keynesian.

This is like manna from heaven to those who want to see LBJ follow a common sense line in foreign policy. Won't someone pinch me to see if I'm dreaming?

The late, deeply respected journalist, Heywood Broun, fancied himself as a playwright, and when nobody else would finance his amateurish revue, "Shoot the Works," he put up the necessary cash himself. Broun was duly appreciative. In fact, on Saturday night, in full view of the audience, he presented Groucho, Harpo, and Chico with three of his own paintings. Groucho convulsed everybody by groaning, "MUST we take these, Heywood? Wasn't it bad enough doing our act for nothing?"

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

There seems to be more and more evidence that the "prudent diet" lessens the incidence of coronary heart disease.

We have now had the definitive findings of a new, intensive study made over a period of seven years in New York City. Over 1,000 men, between the ages of 40 and 59 were part of this group. Results of the study were determined by comparing the number of heart attacks that occurred among members of the group on a "prudent diet" as against those on a normal diet.

A "prudent diet" is one in which an individual chooses foods wisely, and with restraint. This diet was first described by the late Dr. Norman Jolliffe, a leading nutrition expert.

The main purpose of the "prudent diet" is to maintain a higher percentage of polyunsaturated fats than of saturated fats. Polyunsaturated fats tend to lower the cholesterol in the blood, while saturated fats tend to increase the cholesterol level.

Since there is ample proof that high cholesterol levels in the blood are more conducive to heart attacks than low cholesterol levels, it is apparent that the "prudent diet" will include a minimum of cholesterol-producing foods.

The results of the New York study proved just that. Of the 233 prudent dieters in the 40 to 50-year-old range, one person has had a heart attack, as compared to four attacks in the same age range among normal dieters.

Similarly, among 581 prudent dieters in the 50 to 60-year-old range, seven attacks were reported, while there were eight attacks in the normal eating group of the same age that numbered only 206 persons.

The "prudent diet" contains larger amounts of polyunsaturated (low cholesterol) fats. These include corn oil, cottonseed oil, fish oils, oleomargarine, containing liquid vegetable oils, soybean oil, sunflower seed oil, cottage cheese, peanut butter, duck, mayonnaise, pecans, almonds and walnuts.

The diet avoids the saturated (high cholesterol) fats such as are found in beef pork, eggs, cream, whole milk, ice cream, coconut, cheese, lard, butter, chocolate gravy and pastries. Fish, poultry, seafood, whole grain cereals and fresh produce are wiser choices in this "prudent diet."

The "hidden" fats in certain cuts of meat are particularly to be avoided, for these are the saturated fats that generally go uncounted to the daily intake of "keep off" foods. Rich cakes and pies, too account for 75 per cent of their calories in fat.

There is, of course, another vital factor in the great advantage of this "prudent diet." Those who watch their fat intake are also watching and maintaining a control over calorie intake.

A discussion of the effect of food on the incidence of heart disease must include a reminder of the relationship between heart attacks and obesity. So, the "prudent diet" serves a twofold purpose; first, the controlled intake of fats, and second, the controlled intake of calories.

The dividends in health are great for the prudent dieter. That is, the person who makes sure to avoid saturated fats and who watches his waistline as he would a lifeline.

Dear Abby: Don't Quibble, Honey!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and a college senior. I could have had many dates last year but a boy on campus monopolized all my time and ruined my chances with everyone else. At the end of the semester I told him I wasn't sure I cared enough about him to continue dating him in the fall. I said we shouldn't see each other over the summer, but should think it over and talk about it again when school resumed. He said he loved me and always would but he'd abide by my wishes.

When we returned to school he immediately started dating another girl. I called him and told him I wanted to talk to him (I was going to tell him I DID love him.) When he came to see me, he brought the other girl along. I knew then that it was all over between us. Now everyone is saying that HE dropped ME for HER. This is hurting my reputation and I think it's his place to tell our friends that I dropped HIM. What do you think?

NOT DROPPED

DEAR NOT: All right, so you weren't "dropped" — you were freed. But don't expect him to put an ad in the paper. Your pride may be bruised but your reputation won't suffer.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I took a course in "scientific massaging" and I passed the examination without any trouble. I massage as a side line to earn extra money. I enjoy massaging because it brings relaxation to many. I massage men, women and even children. I carry my own table and go to their homes by appointment. My problem is my wife. She does not want me massaging ladies. I say that my work is like a doctor's and there is no reason why I shouldn't massage ladies. What is your opinion?

DEAR MASSEUR: Your wife apparently fears that your lady clients may be getting a treat instead of a treatment. Such fears could be caused by her own feelings of inadequacy. Keep assuring her that she has absolutely nothing to worry about. (p. s. the little woman is jealous—but don't rub it in.)

DEAR ABBY: That lady who wrote about the "Open House" shower, where an ad was placed in the newspaper and anyone who wanted to come was welcome, was a piker compared to someone in my husband's family. Listen to this: One of the girls had to get married, so all her aunts got together and gave her a combination BRIDAL and BABY shower! Practical, I suppose, but wasn't that the absolute limit?

OWOSSO, MICHIGAN
 DEAR OWOSSO: I'd say they exceeded the limit. Speed and otherwise.

CONFIDENTIAL TO POSTAL EMPLOYEE: All my mail is opened for me with the aid of an electric letter-opener, and the envelopes are discarded. When I read unsigned letters, unless some reference to the city is made, I have no way of knowing from where the letter has come.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. McCone, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, says the fall of Soviet Premier Khrushchev surprised the Soviet Press as well as the rest of the world.

The reason, he said, is that Khrushchev's enemies did not themselves believe they had strength to remove him until they assembled in Moscow Oct. 14.

McCone discussed the Soviet situation in a talk before a Catholic University homecoming banquet — the first speech he has made since becoming CIA director three years ago.

George Bundy, President Johnson's special assistant on national security affairs, says he doubts that France ever would withdraw from the North Atlantic alliance.

France, he said, has demonstrated repeatedly it means to stay in the alliance which still is successfully protecting Western Europe. But, Bundy added, even if any nation should withdraw from the alliance he believes ways would be found to protect the interests and security of other members.

Bundy was interviewed on the CBS "Face the Nation."

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a harsh criticism of the "educational establishment," Dr. James B. Conant has called on the 50 states to join in a nationwide educational policy.

Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, emphasized he was not referring to a national education policy to be established and directed by the federal government but rather a policy set up by the states.

Conant set forth his views in a new book, to be published today, "Shaping Educational Policy," (McGraw-Hill).

In it he urges that the six regional accrediting agencies be "discredited," and that the influence of such organizations as the National Education Association be minimized.

Notre Dame Says 'Maybe' To Post-Season Bowl Bid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The feeling grows that the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, the country's No. 1 college football team, may make themselves available for a bowl bid provided they beat Iowa this week and Southern California a week from Saturday to wind up a perfect 10-0 season.

The bowl situation jelled somewhat over the weekend with the announcement that Arkansas and Nebraska, each unbeaten and untied in nine games, will play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas New Year's Day. Texas, 8-1, accepted an invitation for the Orange Bowl at Miami New Year's night. Unofficially Alabama, 9-0-0 and second-ranked nationally to Notre Dame, was indicated as the opponent for the Longhorns.

That leaves the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans and the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., as the other major bowls Jan. 1.

A Sugar Bowl source told The Associated Press Sunday that Louisiana State, 6-1-1, and Syracuse, 7-2, will play there although no official announcement is expected until after this week's games.

The Rose Bowl is committed to teams from the Big Ten and Pacific Athletic Conference.

The powers-that-be at Notre Dame haven't said yes or no or maybe regarding a bowl bid, but there's no doubt the players would be for it.

"I guess it would be great," said star pass receiver Jack Snow after the Irish walloped

Michigan State 34-7 Saturday for their eighth in a row. "Going from a 5-5 season to a 2-7 season and now a bowl. I'd like it, but it's not up to me to say anything."

Coach Ara Parseghian declares only "it's an administrative problem" and Athletic Director Moose Krause denies saying "chances of accepting (a bowl bid) were one in a million, no a billion."

All this talk plus the fact that the athletic board, headed by University Executive Vice President Edmund P. Joyce, C.S.C., has made no announcement one way or the other, accounts for the feeling that the Irish might be receptive to a bid.

Team officials at Arkansas, Nebraska and Texas expressed elation at being named to bowls.

"It's a great day, a milestone, anything you want to say," Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said after his Porkers had crushed Southern Methodist 44-0.

"The players all shouted they wanted the Orange when I told them they could have their choice of a bowl," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal after the Longhorns had whipped Texas Christian 28-13.

Nebraska accepted the Cotton Bowl bid after defeating Oklahoma State 27-14 for its 16th straight victory. The Cornhuskers are fourth-ranked nationally, Arkansas No. 3 and Texas, last year's national champs, No. 5.

Michigan, No. 6, whipped Iowa 34-20, and Ohio State, No. 7, downed Northwestern 10-0 and now are primed for their Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid clash Saturday. Woody Hayes, Ohio State coach, aptly termed it the "purgatory or Pasadena" game.

Family Finds Tasty Venison On Doorstep

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — The E.L. Westbrook family had venison today—delivered to their door.

The 125-pound buck with five-inch antler points apparently wandered miles from its Everglades habitat after it was wounded. Carolyn, 10, and Alan Hasker, 6, found the deer lying on their lawn Sunday. It was dead. Mrs. Charles Hasker said she didn't want it.

"I've never had deer," she said. "I wouldn't know what to do with it."

Police called the Westbrook garage to make the pickup. Mrs. Westbrook knew what to do. In quick order, the deer was skinned, dressed and iced.

"We're cooking a piece of hindquarters now," she said.

Mrs. Westbrook's husband and three sons weren't home to enjoy the meat.

They were in the Everglades — hunting deer.

This is the fifth season for the American Football League.

Two Close Games Feature Teays Valley Loop Opening

The Teays Valley Independent basketball league opened yesterday, with two of the four games played ending in close scores.

Barr's posted a 72-51 verdict over Circleville Merchants, Veterans of Foreign Wars tripped Grove City, 65-59, Ashville IGA edged South Bloomfield, 61-58, and Bremen trounced Circleville Metal, 126-54.

Getting the loop off to a fast start was the Barr's-Circleville Merchants tilt. Barr's rolled to a 32-22 halftime lead which was never relinquished.

Dave Horn set the pace for the winners with 22 points, followed by Bob Sells with 18 and Tom Harbor with 11. Dick Tucker led the Merchants with 18.

PAUL LARGE nailed down 27 points as his VFW team battled down to the wire with a determined Grove City outfit. Johnson added 19 to the victory cause.

Mike Swetnam's 23 were high for Grove City. The VFW team built a 40-25 intermission lead, then staved off a GC bid in the final two cantos.

Bremen established itself as a real contender as Larry Young scorched the nets for 14 goals and one free toss to lead all scorers for the day. He had able support from McCoy with 22 points and J. Roberts with 19.

Pacing Circleville Metal was Walley with 17 and L. Hardman with 12. Bremen put the game out of reach in the first quarter after fashioning a 33-8 edge.

Ashville IGA and South Bloomfield hooked up for the closest tilt of the afternoon. South Bloomfield moved to a 15-13 first quarter advantage, but the grocerymen rallied for 31-28 halftime margin and held on in the final two chukkers for the victory.

Showing the way for the winners was Dick Hoover with 16 points, aided by Fred Dunham's 14. Phil Reese and Dan Hollenback collaborated for 13 each for the losers.

Four more contests are on tap next Sunday. Bremen meets Ashville IGA, VFW tangles with South Bloomfield, Barr's takes on Circleville Metal and Circleville Merchants hook up with Grove City.

Colts on Top With Hawkins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alex Hawkins is the Baltimore Colts' third captain, sixth running back and seventh pass receiver.

He also is a major reason why the Colts are within one victory of gaining the title in the National Football League's Western Conference.

Hawkins, filling in for injured end Raymond Berry, made a diving catch of a 26-yard touchdown pass from Johnny Unitas that boosted the Colts to a 17-14 victory over Minnesota Sunday.

The Colts' ninth straight triumph gave them a virtually insurmountable 3 1/2-game lead over Detroit and Los Angeles, which both lost. They now have four games in which to win one that will make them conference champions for the first time since 1950.

The touchdown was the 15th of Hawkins' career, putting him slightly behind Jimmy Brown, who has 103. Brown scored two touchdowns in Cleveland's 37-21 victory over Detroit.

In other games, Chicago stopped Los Angeles 34-24, New York tied St. Louis 10-10, San Francisco upset Green Bay 24-14, Philadelphia edged Dallas 17-14 and Washington walloped Pittsburgh 30-0.

Kathy's Golf Wins Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth had her first golf tournament victory of the year today as she headed for Japan and an exhibition tour.

Miss Whitworth fired a closing two-under-par 70 Sunday and won the $10,000 San Antonio Civitan Open first prize of $1,500 with 283 for 72 holes.

She is from Jal, New Mex., but plays out of San Antonio's Pecan Valley Country Club where the women's tournament was held.

Miss Whitworth won by three strokes over Marlene Hagge, who had a 71 for 286. Mickey Wright, the big winner on the women's tour, finished in a tie for third with Shirley Engle-

Browns Head For Division Championship

CLEVELAND (AP) — The magic number now is 2 for the Cleveland Browns.

Two Cleveland wins would give the Browns their first Eastern Division championship since 1957. If St. Louis loses one of its remaining games, Cleveland would need only one more victory to clinch the title.

The Browns, manhandling quarterback Milt Plum in the second half, took a big step toward the National Football League playoff game Sunday with a 37-21 win over the Detroit Lions before 83,064 at Municipal Stadium.

The win gives Cleveland an 8-1-1 record while the second place Cardinals sloshed to a 10-10 tie in the rain with the New York Giants, leaving the Redbirds 5-3-2. There are four games left on the schedule.

Jim Brown and Lou Groza were the men of the hour, Brown smashing for two touchdowns and Groza booting three field goals to avenge a 59-14 whacking the Browns took from the Lions in the 1957 championship game. Sunday's victory was the first over Detroit in six regular season games.

It was touch and go until the last two minutes.

Groza, playing with a broken nose, booted a 36 - yarder with 1:24 left to put the Browns out of reach, 30-21. Walter Beach then sent the crowd home cheering when he intercepted a Sonny Gibbs pass and raced 65 yards to score as the game ended.

Plum had an outstanding first half. Behind solid protection, he completed 11 of 16 with touchdown passes of 92 yards to Dan Lewis, 39 to Terry Barr and a four-yarder to Jim Gibbons.

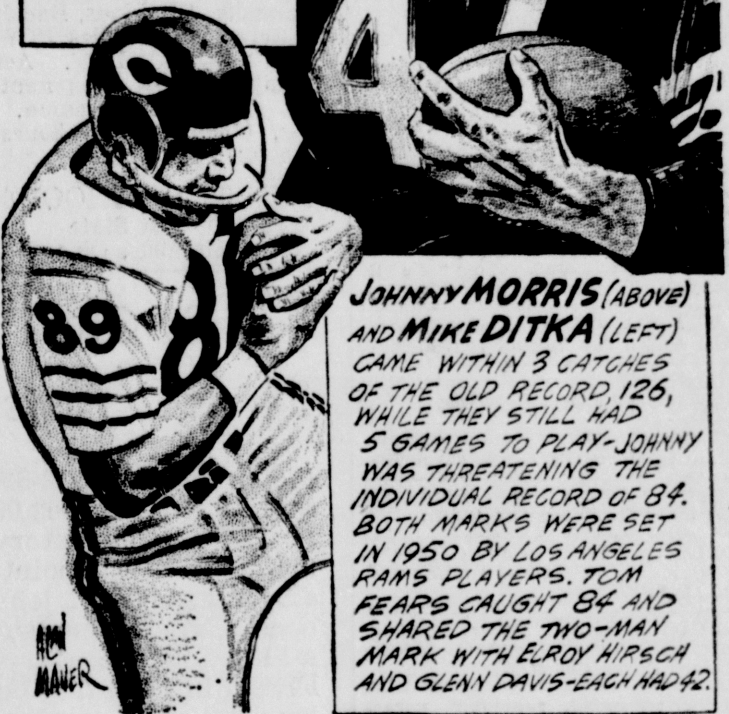

But the Browns front four got to Plum after the intermission, and he completed only 4 of 11. Gibbs came in for the last two plays.

JOHNNY MORRIS (ABOVE) AND MIKE DITKA (LEFT) CAME WITHIN 3 CATCHES OF THE OLD RECORD, 126, WHILE THEY STILL HAD 5 GAMES TO PLAY. JOHNNY WAS THREATENING THE INDIVIDUAL RECORD OF 84. BOTH MARKS WERE SET IN 1950 BY LOS ANGELES RAMS PLAYERS, TOM FEARS CAUGHT 84 AND SHARED THE TWO-MAN MARK WITH EROY HIPSCH AND GLENN DAVIS—EACH HAD 42.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

In Memoriam

I loving memory of Kim Leroy
Brown who was killed Nov. 16, 1954
in an auto accident.
A bud the Gardener gave us
A pure and lovely child,
He gave him in our keeping
To cherish for a while.
But just as it was opening
To the glory of the day,
Down came the Heavenly Gardner
And took our flower away.
Sadly missed by mother, Patricia
(Brown) Stimpfle

Top Performances Spark College Football Teams

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Football heroes were a dime a dozen Saturday as most of Ohio's colleges wound up their 1964 grid season with some dazzling feats.
One of the top performances of the weekend was turned in by Carroll Williams, a sophomore quarterback from Xavier who was making only his second start.
Williams fired touchdown strikes of 21, 41 and 42 yards as the Muskies surprised Detroit in a wild 38-27 contest.
Ashland's Morris Gullion rambled for 201 yards and two touchdowns in the Oiler's 13-7 conquest of Eastern Michigan. Gullion, who carried the ball 35 times, finished with 70 points for the season.
Other eye-catchers were Dan Simrell who led Toledo to a 27-8 victory over Southern Illinois. Simrell connected on 11 of 13 aerials for 95 yards and one touchdown.
Marshall's star halfback Jack Mahone scored twice in the final period as the Big Green nipped Kent State, 12-7. Brig Owens ran and passed Cincinnati to the Missouri Valley Conference title as the Bearcats topped Wichita, 19-7. Ernie Kellermann scored two touchdowns and passed for another as Miami outlasted stubborn Dayton, 27-21; and full-

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television has become such a household staple that parents often are nonplussed when their children inquire how they spent their evenings "in the olden days."

We all had a chance to find out — and for many of us, to remember — Sunday night when NBC presented a 55-minute radio program recalling some of the high moments of the golden pre-television era.

There was Eddie Cantor singing his closing song, "I Love to Spend Each Sunday with You," and Major Bowes quieting the applause for an amateur contestant in his calm voice.

Stars of the show were Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, who started in radio 31 years ago with a coffee sponsor — when coffee came in paper bags.

In the background you could hear a real, rich roar of laughter from the studio audience. In many a home Sunday night, there must have been nostalgic smiles.

That brings us to the incredible two hours of special programs on network television this past weekend which concentrated on the Beatles.

On Friday night CBS presented some film made during the singers' American tour — and I've made better home movies myself. The shots were mostly confused crowd scenes, full of bobbing heads, and the sound track was loaded with squeals and an occasional snatch of a song. Carol Burnett read a dull narration with a remarkable lack of enthusiasm.

Then Sunday night ABC cleared an hour for something called "Around the Beatles," in which a number of young British rock 'n' rollers wailed, bobbed and shook their long locks while a mob of youngsters howled and screamed and clapped their hands.

Ah, me! Nelson Eddy sounded pretty good on the radio Sunday night and at least his feminine admirers swooned silently.

Recommended tonight: "The Andy Williams Show," NBC, 9-10 EST — with Shirley Booth.

Annual Clash Will Decide Big 10 Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chalmers (Bump) Elliott of Michigan and Woody Hayes of Ohio State will do a lot of plotting and planning this week.

They clash here Saturday, before more than 84,000 fans, with the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl bid awaiting the winner. Both mentors will spend this week's workouts seeking some tactical trickery to add to their offensive repertoires.

Michigan-Ohio State games, even if last place is at stake instead of all the honors, have been classics down through the years since 1918. The Wolves hold a 35-21-4 edge over the Buckies, but Ohio has won the last four, and 9 of 13 and 3r last four, and 9 of 13 under since 1956.

Each team is 7-1 in the season, Michigan is 5-1 in the conference losing only to Purdue by 21-20, while Ohio State is 5-0. The Bucks can take it all with a tie, but Michigan must triumph to sniff the Pasadena Roses.

Elliott would like nothing better than to succeed his brother Pete, Illinois coach, as Big Ten champ and Rose Bowl representative. No brothers have ever put such a feat back to back.

Ohio State, by introducing the "I" formation for the first time, and running for a first down on a punting situation, broke out of its traditional conservative play Saturday in beating Northwestern. A week before the Bucks had been battered 27-0 by four-time loser Penn State, ending a six-game winning streak.

But the experts figure Ohio State will have to rebound still further to have a chance against the hungry invaders. Even at this late date, Hayes is planning one big lineup change, with Leon Lindsey, Steubenville senior, taking over at right half for Tom Barrington who has been a fixture there all year.

Barrington, injured early the last two games, has gained 199 yards in 59 tries, and caught six passes for 55. Lindsey has gained 107 in 13 attempts and picked off two passes for 28. Each has one touchdown.

68 School Janitors Make $25,000 - Plus

NEW YORK (AP) — New York long has been known as a city of big financial operators. But hardly anyone would have expected to find a flock of them sweeping out the little red schoolhouse.

Thus there were gasps of amazement here and elsewhere when it came to light that city school custodians were among the highest paid people in the nation.

A number were found to be making more than governors, mayors of large cities, college presidents and even school superintendents.

One wound up with $53,000 for a year's work — $3,000 more than New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Another made $46,130. By comparison, School Supt. Calvin A. Gross gets $45,000 a year.

Of the city's 870 custodians, some 68 were in the $25,000-plus bracket.

How did this situation come about?

Long ago the ruling elders of the school system concluded that it would be better to farm out the janitoring job than to set up a large organization within the system to do it.

As a result, custodians became contractors. As individuals they contracted to maintain and keep the schools clean. The money they received was based on the size of the school.

Out of the lump sum they were to hire whatever help was necessary and pay for all equipment and materials to do the job.

Whatever was left over was their own pay.

About a year ago the system came under official scrutiny as the result of newspaper stories on custodians' income.

Probes were undertaken by a newly installed school administration and by Herman T. Stichman, special commissioner of investigation for Gov. Rockefeller. Public hearings were held by Stichman.

A school official testified that the custodians were getting "two to five times more than what is being paid in private industry." He added that in personal inspections he found many schools weren't being kept clean.

Speaking in defense of the custodians was Harry G. Mundt, president of Local 891 of the International Union of Operating Engineers. The local represents most of the custodians, who, in most cases, must pass civil service tests.

Mundt, unpaid as president of the local but a school custodian himself whose last publicly reported pay for a year was $31,500, maintained that there had been no wrongdoing by custodians and that "the taxpayers have gotten their full value."

Late last month the union and school administration agreed on new terms.

It provided that no custodian will keep more than $26,000 a year. Under a new formula based on school size, only five or six will receive this much.

The bulk will get between $13,000 and $15,000 a year. In some cases the figure will drop as low as about $8,500.

News of World in Brief

CHICAGO (AP)—Indian dances were performed hundreds of years ago in attempts to bring rain, make crops grow and insure success in battle.

Hundreds of American Indians did their ritual dances this weekend for another reason — to raise money for their city-dwelling kinsmen who are new to the white man's ways. About 10,000 Indians live in Chicago.

It may have been incidental, but a two-month Illinois drought was eased somewhat by a day-long rain Sunday.

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Gen. Ibrahim Abboud has turned the Sudanese presidency over to the new civilian Cabinet and quit as commander of the armed forces after renewed demonstrations last week against military influence in government.

Abboud, 64, took a figurehead role after a student revolt last month paved the way for a civilian regime. Under pressure from the Cabinet, he agreed Saturday to retire. He had taken power as head of a military government in 1958.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Ex-Premier David Ben-Gurion quit the central committee of Israel's ruling Mapai party Sunday night after accusing it of illegally shelving his program for electoral reforms.

The committee approved Premier Levi Eshkol's proposal to shelve the program for four years. This was demanded by the left-wing Abdu Avoda party, a member of the coalition government, because the party would lose parliamentary seats.

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP) — Heinrich von Brentano, 60, former West German foreign minister, died Saturday. He served as foreign minister from 1945 to 1961 and remained active in politics until he became ill in 1963.

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Actress Kate Manx, 32, who appeared in recent years on television, died Sunday. Doctors attributed her death to an overdose of sleeping pills.

Entry, Attempt Are Investigated

Two entry cases, one actual and one attempt, were jointly investigated today by city police and the sheriff's department.

The Circleville Oil Company's tire shop on W. High St. was entered. An unsuccessful attempt was made at the nearby A & P Supermarket. Officers said the person or persons apparently were involved in both cases.

A steel bar taken from the tire shop was found at the supermarket. Although entry was gained at the shop, nothing was reported missing other than the metal bar.

A door on the north side of the building was forced at the tire shop. Officers said attempts to enter the supermarket by way of a door and from the roof did not succeed.

Rain Saves Houses But 75 Acres Burn

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Fire destroyed 75 acres of woodland in Kirtland Twp. Sunday before it was extinguished by rain as it came within a half mile of some houses. Fire Chief Ralph E. Dyke said the fire would have raged on for several hours more had it not rained.

Missing Radio Found

A missing transistor radio, reported missing Sunday by Mrs. Jack Corne of 141 York St., was later found. Police said the radio was found in an alley near the Corne house by some children.

Cabinet, Staff Welcome LBJ Back to Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, back in the White House for the first time since his big election victory, got a backyard welcome Sunday night from Cabinet members, staff aides, children and dogs.

A crowd of several hundred, headed by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, gathered at the south portico to greet the President and Mrs. Johnson as they arrived by helicopter on the final leg of a trip from their ranch home in Texas.

"My," said Johnson, "It's so nice to see all of you."

Johnson is expected to remain in Washington only a few days and hopes to spend much of the next seven weeks at his hill-country ranch near Johnson City.

Rusk and other Cabinet members and their families were the first to greet the Johnsons, setting up an informal receiving line alongside the helicopter ramp.

The others, most of them White House employees, some in work clothes, then formed a narrow aisle through which the Johnsons walked into the executive mansion, handshaking all the way.

The President apparently had no advance word of the very informal affair.

Johnson hadn't been home long when he made a quick trip by car to the State Department to drop in on a farewell party for Dr. Walter W. Heller, who has resigned as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, to return to a professorship at the University of Minnesota.

The President had only one announced - in - advance appointment today, to participate in the noontime swearing in of Arthur M. Okun as a member of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Okun fills a vacancy left by the resignation of Heller. Johnson elevated Gardner Ackley, a council member, to the chairmanship.
